Fallsburg Seventh Graders Complete First DARE Real Refusal Strategy Program

Fallsburg Police

Since 1983 Police Departments all over America have been closely involved with local school districts in promoting drug awareness education to stem the effects of substance abuse in communities through the DARE program-Drug Abuse Resistance Education. The Town of Fallsburg created its own chapter in the early 1990's when Police Officer Simmie Williams was School Resource Officer (SRO) in the district. On Friday, February 26, now Chief of Police Williams was at Fallsburg High School to present certificates to 102 seventh graders for completion of the first DARE Real Refusal Strategy program.

The essential parts of the ten week training are contained in the acronym REAL. Refuse is saying no, I don't want to do something. EXPLAIN is saying why I don't want to do something. AVOID is keeping away from a situation I don't want to be involved in.

LEAVE is taking myself out of a situation I don't want to be in.

On hand for the ceremony along with the Police Chief were Superintendent Dr. Ivan Katz, Junior/Senior High School Principal Michael Williams and current SRO Jason Edwards. Up until this year, DARE's National Staff focused their educational program on fifth graders. Officer Edwards was one of the first teachers in the new effort to direct attention to seventh graders as well.

Edwards explained that research shows that teaching students as young teenagers to develop decision-making skills helps them lead safe and healthy lives. The vision for the seventh grade model program was to go beyond substance abuse and promote the students to lead lives free from violence and other dangerous behaviors as well-to make good life decisions. Fallsburg Continues Focus on Family Engagement The Fallsburg Central School District

Ms. Tara Burgess, EPIC Director of Family Engagement, led the Workshop.

The Fallsburg Central School District (FCSD) continued to build upon its parent engagement practices at a workshop facilitated by Every Person Influences Children (EPIC), on February 10, 2016. The workshop allowed each school's parent engagement committee to review current practices and plan new engagement activities.

EPIC emphasizes that family engagement is a shared responsibility in which schools and other community agencies and organizations are committed to reaching out to engage families in meaningful ways and in which families are committed to actively supporting their children's learning and development.

Ms. Tara Burgess, EPIC Director of Family Engagement, guided the training, with the assistance of Ms. Phyllis Eig, Central Hudson Regional Director for EPIC. Building on previous workshops and meetings with Fallsburg parents and staff, Ms. Burgess stated that the goals of PTA and Family Engagement Advisory the Orientation were to familiarize the PTA and Family Engagement Advisory Committee with the Family Engagement Assessment that EPIC provided in 2014, in addition to EPIC's Differentiated Family Engagement (DFE) model and the PTA's National Standards for Family-School Partnerships. (Contd. Pg. 4)

March has arrived! Even though we had a relatively mild winter, most of us are looking forward to SPRING! Spring, when Mother Earth begins to provide us with brilliant colors. I can already see that the maples are turning red, a sure sign sapping season is over, and the grass has begun to turn green. Some of my crocuses are blooming and I've seen robins and blue birds in the fields and flocks of geese passing overhead. And... the red wings have returned with their noisy chatter signaling winter's farewell. The Eureka eagle is setting and the eaglewatchers are ever-present with their eyes and scopes focused on the nest. Yes, warmer days are definitely on the way as spring-time begins to cast her spell on the land.

Annual Free Pheasant Rearing Opportunity for Youth

Daily care is necessary to monitor the health of young pheasants and to ensure that there is adequate feed and water for the rapidly growing chicks. Youth interested in participating in the annual Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC)'s Day-Old Pheasant "Raise & Release" program have the unique opportunity to experience rearing pheasants and releasing them into the wild. Orders can be placed until Friday, March 18, 2016 through Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County (CCESC)'s 4-H Youth Development program, located at the Gerald J. Skoda Extension Education Center on 64 Ferndale-Loomis Road in Liberty.

The rearing and release of pheasants requires a great deal of responsibility by youth and a substantial time commitment. The benefits of this program are as follows:

 Rearing pheasants is enjoyable, challenging, and teaches youth responsible behavior -Released pheasants offer fall hunting opportunities

 People enjoy seeing and hearing pheasants (Contd. Pg. 4)

Holy Moley!

I just heard from our friends who send the MBR's from Colorado. They are working in their gardens and unfortunately a mole has made a path through the flower beds!

Moles have been around for longer than we can imagine. When dinosaurs were wiped out on earth 60 million years ago, only small prehistoric land mammals remained. Of them, the Mole family Talpidae survived by living underground. They adjusted to darkness, heat or cold, wet or dry conditions. Fossils from the Eocene Period, about 50 million years ago, show that moles were thriving then.

Hardly ever seen above ground, a mole is a small mouse-like animal 4-6" long, weighing 2-5 ounces with strong front feet tipped with long claws, palms turned outward, perfect for digging. Moles have no ears and tiny pinhead size eyes that are covered with thin skin. The nose and tail are pink and naked.

A mole's pointy nose, shovel front feet and short tail have touch-sensitive hairs whose nerve endings enable a mole to tunnel along without bumping into the walls in its constant search for food to satisfy its huge appetite.

Moles belong to the scientific order Insectivora which tells you what their main food is, supplemented by earthworms.

Mole fur is one of the softest animal pelts and shades from silvery gray in the north, brown to ivory in the south.

Moles dig two kinds of tunnels: a deep one down to twenty-four inches where they spend the winter and build a grass-lined nest in spring for several babies.

The little mounds of dirt in your lawn or flower beds were pushed up from below as moles enlarged the nursery and the deep connecting tunnels.

A shallow tunnel at grass root level makes a low winding ridge on lawns, gardens and golf courses. Moles travel along them to find food day and night, all seasons.

Moles have one litter a year when several babies arrive between March and May, depending on where they are located in the states.

The young grow quickly, become independent by one month old, and breed at one year. Moles can live several years if they escape enemies that dig like coyotes, foxes and feral cats, and avoid man-made dangers of traps and poison bait.

Well, folks, not sure if you are so unlucky to have these litter critters make themselves know in your garden or lawns with those unsightly tunnels and heaps of dirt. Remember that the mole who has made its path through your flower bed probably ate its weight in Japanese beetle grubs! Maybe just a little castor oil and soap detergent mixture will send them on to a new 'neighborhood' away from your garden.

And lucky you are to have such nice weather in Colorado and be able to work in your garden. While it is a bit chilly as I am writing this column on Sunday, warmer weather is on its way to the Catskills! I am sure soon we too, will be complaining about the unsightly mole trails!

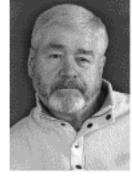

Household Hints

As if a winter's worth of ice, slush, and snow wasn't rough enough on your shoes and boots, the worst thing, by far, is all the rock salt that's used to melt it. In addition to leaving unsightly white stains, salt can actually cause your footwear to crack and even disintegrate if it's left on indefinitely. To remove it and prevent long-term damage, wipe stains with a cloth dipped in undiluted white vinegar. Let the shoes and boots air dry. Then you can put them away until next winter and get out those spring shoes!

Last Words

by John Dwaine McKenna

There ought to be a special word for novels that have more than one theme, more than one story arc, and a tricky, psychologically-twisted plot interwoven with numerous backstories blended together into a complex and genre-defying literary stew that you just can't put down once you begin reading. Something like Mindaffectus-Mystery or Terribullistawickedus-Thriller, which would easily identify smash-mouth, twisted pulse-pounders like Last Words, (Little, Brown and Company, $26.00, 420 pages, ISBN 978-0316-12263-4) by Michael Koryta that are a work of a virtuoso, master wordsmith. Oh, yeah – I liked it – a lot!

Markus Novak is an investigator for Innocence Inc., an anti-death penalty project based in St. Petersburg, Florida. It's a pro-bono defense agency whose only purpose is to free unjustly convicted death row inmates and help them regain their lives. It's a job he loves, almost as much as he loves his wife Lauren, who's also an investigator at the same firm. Truth be told, Markus was so enamored of Lauren that he followed her to work there. And, surprise! He's really good at it. But, on the day his life changes forever, when Lauren's going to interview a spiritualist who claims to have vital information about a case they're working, Markus, a man loaded with bad childhood memories says, "Don't embarrass me with this st!!" A couple of hours later, Lauren is killed by an unknown assailant – and Markus is devastated. A year later, with the murder still unsolved, Markus reaches out to an inmate in prison, offering immediate cash for the name of her killer, with the promise of ten times that amount for the killers death. The news travels and Novak is all but banished, sent to the small southern Indiana town of Garrison, to look into a ten year old cold case. It's the unsolved homicide of a seventeen year old girl, named Sarah Martin, whose body was found in a mysterious and geologically spectacular cavern known locally as Trapdoor. It's the type of case Innocence Inc. would never accept, but while Novak's job is hanging in the balance, he's better off being out of town, as his boss tries to convince the board of directors not to fire him. That's plot theme number one.

Theme number two unfolds in Garrison, Indiana. There, Markus is inexorably drawn into the unsolved murder of young Sarah. It's a ten-year old cold case that everyone in town – including the sheriff – is convinced was committed by a local eccentric named Ridley Barnes. He's a recluse, an expert cave explorer who was mapping Trapdoor before the tragedy, and he's the man who carried Sarah Martin's lifeless body back to the surface. Barnes can't remember what happened as he wandered for days in the dark, lost without food or water or, worst of all, light, in the depths of the cavern as he searched for the lost girl. When he finally surfaces with Sarah's body-Ridley doesn't know if she was alive when he found her-and thinks he may have killed her. But he can't remember . . . where he found her, or how they got out . . . and no one can contradict him. Now Ridley Barnes want to know-did he kill Sarah Martin? Maybe Markus Novak, despite his reluctance, can find the answer and maybe he'll die trying!

Last Words is one of the most suspenseful, well-crafted and intricately plotted novels we've read in the twenty-first century. It will enthrall the reader from first to last page as it keeps everyone guessing . . . whodunnit?

Fallsburg Continues Focus on Family Engagement (From Pg. 1) During the three hours, the group examined the connection of DFE and the National Standards to key outcomes, and began to create a draft template for a Fallsburg CSD Family Engagement Plan. The participants heard a lot of information and worked hard to develop the draft plan.

worked hard to develop the draft plan.

Ms. Mary Kate Stinehour, Principal at Benjamin Cosor Elementary School, thought the day was quite productive, especially hearing different perspectives from parents present. The trainer created a welcoming environment and offered helpful guidance in response to any questions that arose.

Next steps will be to continue work on plan development and then to share the plan with staff, families and community agencies and members, in an effort to work collaboratively to implement the plan. Ms. Burgess was very pleased and stated, "We are always impressed with the Fallsburg participant's commitment to families and this session was no different. We look forward to seeing the benefits to the entire Fallsburg community from all of their hard work."

Fallsburg Seventh Graders Complete First DARE Real Refusal Strategy Program (From Pg. 1) When asked what the program has meant to the School District, the SRO said that he has gotten to know the students better and to build good relations with them. He works closely with the high school principal and the police chief for guidance and policies to create a good rapport between the school and the town of Fallsburg.

After receiving individual certificates, the students, families and teachers that came to support the graduates listened to Principal Williams conclude the ceremony with words of wisdom based on his own experience as a student himself over the years and as a high school principal for the past fifteen years. Looking out directly into the eyes of the youngsters seated immediately in front of him, he told them: "I guarantee you that each of you will face an important decision. It could be tomorrow or years from now. You will need to make a choice at that moment that can affect you for the rest of your life. It is at that very moment when you can call on the training and skills taught to you over the past ten weeks. That choice to make the right decision is up to you." With that said he wished the students good luck and congratulations.

Annual Free Pheasant Rearing Opportunity for Youth (From Pg. 3) For more information on the Day-Old Pheasant Chick Program or to register for chicks, please contact Michelle Lipari, CCESC agriculture & 4-H community educator at mml249@cornell.edu or 845-292-6180. For more information about this and other opportunities through 4-H, visit www.sullivancce.org/4-h-youth-development.

When the program started in the early 1900s, pheasant eggs and chicks were distributed to farmers and rural youth. Today, dayold chicks are available at no cost to participants who are able to provide a brooding facility, a covered outdoor rearing pen, and an adequate release site. According to the DEC, wild populations of this introduced species have reached all-time lows. Without propagation and release programs by DEC and private entities, pheasant hunting opportunities would not exist in New York State.

The program is funded through the state Conservation Fund from license fees paid by hunters, trappers, and anglers. More information is available on the DEC website at http://www.dec.ny.gov/animals/7271.html.

4-H empowers youth to reach their full potential, working and learning in partnership with caring adults. 4-H Members have opportunities to connect to Cornell University, learn through hands-on activities, lead, be inspired, inspire others, and "Make the Best Better". Anyone can join 4-H with thousands of other New York State members, volunteers, staff, and funders.

Leadership Sullivan Chooses Two Community Projects

The 2016 class of Leadership Sullivan is working with both Rutherford Elementary School and the Upper Delaware Council to complete community service projects. The annual leadership program chooses projects from applications submitted by not-for-profit organizations in Sullivan County.

Rutherford Elementary School will benefit from class participation in designing and applying eye-catching stencils to the playground as an additional learning experience for the children. The class will also assist the Upper Delaware Council in helping clear park property to preserve the cultural resources of canal and stone walls at a site that was once part of the D and H Canal.

Leadership Sullivan is a program sponsored by the Sullivan County Chamber of Commerce Foundation to develop responsive leadership in order to meet the challenges facing the county. Each year a group of leaders and emerging leaders is chosen from Sullivan County residents and businesses. Monthly classes with leaders from throughout the county are conducted to inform the group about topics such as government, health, environment, tourism, etc.

The Foundation annually solicits proposals from not-for-profit organizations for short term projects. The Leadership Sullivan class reviews the proposals and volunteers to complete the project as a requirement for their graduation.

Applications for both the Leadership Sullivan

The Olive Jar - By Carol LaMonda

Liar, Liar; Pants on Fire

The election is nine months away. One could conceive and have a baby in that time. Talk of the candidates has consumed the public media, the social media, coffee shop conversations, and dinner table chatter. Already I need to unplug to destress from all the mud-slinging, name-calling, and tattle-telling.

This election has turned into a reality TV show with talk shows and late night comedy shows feeding the fodder. Candidates have not had to spend much money on commercials because the stuff they are saying consumes the programming part of television.

I find it interesting that the candidates no longer go by their full names. Hillary, Bernie, Trump, Cruz, or Rubio are celebrated on par with one-name rock stars like Madonna, Usher and Cher. Republicans are using the surname strategy: Cruz, Rubio, Christie, etc. The Democrats are sticking with given names like Bernie and Hillary. Instead of being prestigious public figures, we speak of them as they might be our crazy cat lady down the block or our uncle Fred who drinks a bit too much beer on Friday nights.

I taught middle school for twenty-eight years, so I know that thirteen and fourteen-year old students can compose a logical essay, conduct a debate and participate in a Socratic Seminar. The debate and press conferences of many of these candidates are reduced to incomplete sentences, limited vocabulary and shouting matches. They appear to be more like sandbox squabbles of pre-schoolers. Issue debating has been condensed into "liar, liar; pants on fire" and "I'm rubber; you're glue. Whatever you say bounces off me and sticks to you."

The Republican field of candidates is narrowing like an Agathie Christie (no relation to Chris) novel, and the Democratic duo might have to eat crow when all is said and done when they find themselves on the same side of many issues. I predict that in nine long months of political pregnancy, there might be some unexpected events as the spotlight moves from the side-show of the circus to the center ring of the main event. In the meantime, bring on the clowns.

Senate Passes "Joanne's Law" to Protect New Yorkers in the Workplace:

Assembly Must Act! Senator John J. Bonacic (R/C/I-Mt. Hope) is pleased to announce that his bill, S,1677, which would protect individuals in the workplace, has passed the Senate. The bill, named "Joanne's Law", was created in response to a terrible tragedy from 2005 where an employee of a company who had been fired and later sentenced to 10 years probation returned to the office of his former employer and shot three managers. One of the victims was Joanne O'Brien of Greenwood Lake, who later died of her injuries, and for whom the law is named.

This legislation will require that employers or workplaces be notified when former employees or visitors whom were convicted of crimes that were committed in those workplaces are released from incarceration or violate their probation or parole.

"This law will hopefully prevent a repeat of this tragedy. If the employer had been notified, it would have enabled him to take the proper measures or precautions to protect himself and his employees," said Senator Bonacic. "My hope is that the Assembly will act quickly to pass this bill, and send it to the Governor's desk, which would bring much needed piece of mind to New Yorkers."

The bill will be sent to the Assembly.

Director's Message

On Saturday, February 27, we had a large crowd here for the opening of an exhibit of the art-work made by 4th graders at Bennett Elementary. The paintings and poems were inspired by Washington Irving's story, Rip Van Winkle, which is set in the Catskill Mountains. Above, 4th grade artist Jack Longyear patiently poses for a photograph in front of his painting.

We will offer for the first time a filmmaking intensive workshop for teens at the end of March and through April. Spark Media Project of Poughkeepsie is bringing all the equipment and know-how to teach the workshop. In this four-part workshop series teens will script, storyboard, film, and edit their own original Science Fiction/Fantasy short films. We will screen the films at the end of the series. Kids can take the late bus from Onteora High School and be dropped off at the library to attend. Sign up deadline is March 19. We are offering this workshop for free with funding from a bequest by Willard Braby.

We are narrowing in on a CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) that will make a weekly delivery to the library. Please email director@olivefreelibrary.org if you haven't already, if you are interested in participating.

Rock Around the Town

Bob Drown reports that he, "... fired up the Plymouth and drove up to the covered Bridge in Willowemoc, then up Hunter Lake Rd, back to Willowemoc and Round Pond then home."

But before heading home, "As I got on the Frost Valley Road, I stopped to take these photos of the boulder that slid down the side of the mountain, if memory der that slid down the side of the mountain, if memory serves me correct, in the summer of 1993 after a period of heavy rain. I was also reminded yesterday that we had that big snow storm in March of '93 which might have had a lot to do with that boulder starting its way down the mountain. People have been chiseling that boulder to get pieces for their stone walls.'

"By parking the Plymouth along side the boulder, you can get an idea just how huge that piece of rock really is."

Liberty Rotary Club Recognition Brunch to Benefit Haiti Water Project

"I Will Be A Hummingbird" will be the theme of the Liberty Rotary Club's Inaugural Recognition Brunch to be held on Sunday, April 3rd from 1 PM - 3 PM at the New Hope Community Banquet Hall.

At the brunch four prominent and active Sullivan County community members will be presented with the Liberty Rotary Club's Hummingbird Award for "doing their part" and "doing the best they can" to make the worlda better place.

Those "Hummingbirds" being honored are Dan Berkowicz (retired New Hope Community CEO), Penny Medina (Liberty High School ESL Teacher and Interact Club Advisor), Les Kristt (Owner of Krist Company and active member of the Monticello Rotary Club, WSUL/WVOS Heartathon, SCCD Boys & Girls Club Steering and Thunder 102 (Paul Ciliberto, Michelle Semerano and Mike Sakell Thunder Country's Community Minded Radio Station).

In addition the club will be recognizing club members Barbara Blakey, Dan Parkhurst, Barbi Neumann Marty, Dave Thomson (Plus 1) and Gary Silverman as their newest Paul Harris Fellows. The Paul Harris Fellow Recognition acknowledges individuals who contribute, or who have contributions made in their name of $1,000 to The Rotary Foundation of Rotary International which uses these generous donations to fund projects like the club's Haiti Clean Water Project in communities around the world.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for our club to recognize some of our most active citizens in the club and community who live by the rotary motto of "Service above Self" combined with fundraising for our Haiti Clean Water Project that will provide clean potable water to thousands of Haitians", says club board member Jack Strassman.

Suggested donation for the brunch is $15 per person with additional donations being accepted for the Club's Haiti Clean Water project which will help to provide water filtration systems and clean potable water for 1000 Haitian families. The project is being partially funded through a global grant where funds have been allocated from Rotary District 7210 in the Hudson Valley and District 7020 in the Caribbean. These funds are being matched dollar for dollar by the Rotary Foundation.
"Our global grant application has been officially submitted and we are well on our way to our goal of raising the needed funds for the project," says Liberty Rotary Club's President Elect Gary Silver. "Haiti has been devastated by earthquakes and hurricanes in the past and the poverty there is beyond belief. Our goal is to receive donations for 100 water filtration systems." While donations of any amount will be welcomed, a donation of ONLY $50 will provide a Haitian family with clean potable water. Any funds raised from the brunch will be matched fifty cents to the dollar by the Rotary Foundation so a $50 donation will turn into a donation of $75 for the project.

Reservations are requested by March 28th. For tickets or to donate a water filtration system for a Haitian Family, contact Gary Siegel: Phone 845 798-2188 Email haasiegel@aol.com or contact any Liberty Rotary Club members. To reserve/donate by mail make checks payable to Liberty Rotary Club Haiti Clean Water Project and send to PO Box 493 Liberty, NY 12754.

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo today announced the launch of the New NY Program's Consolidated Funding Application Portal, which is now accepting applications for the Request for Proposals issued on Jan. 8. The $500 million program, which provides funding for high-speed internet access to unserved and underserved areas across the state, is the largest and most ambitious state investment in broadband in the nation.

'Access to high-speed internet is essential for engaging in the 21st century economy, but the broadband gap is leaving far too many New Yorkers behind," Governor Cuomo said. A.G. Schneiderman's Special Invetigations and Prosecutions Unit Releases Detailed Report on Investigation into the Death of Raynette Turner

Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman today announced the release of a comprehensive report by his office's Special Investigations and Prosecutions Unit detailing the results of his office's seven-month investigation into the death of Raynette Turner on July 27, 2015, in Mt. Vernon. The report provides an unprecedented degree of transparency to an investigation involving the death of an unarmed civilian in police custody. The investigation, led by Chief of the Special Investigations and Prosecutions Unit Alvin Bragg, found no criminal culpability in the death of Ms. Turner.

Investigators from the Attorney General's office interviewed more than 40 witnesses, reviewed over 1,700 pages of medical records, including autopsy and toxicology results, and examined video evidence covering virtually the entire time Ms. Turner was in custody at the Mt. Vernon Police Department. The official autopsy, conducted by the Westchester County Medical Examiner, found that Ms. Turner died of natural causes. As part of today's announcement, the Attorney General's office also released the official autopsy report and video footage of Ms. Turner's time in custody.

"Ms. Turner's death was a tragedy, and the public deserves all of the facts," said Attorney General Schneiderman. "I commend Alvin Bragg and the Special Investigations and Prosecutions Unit for completing a fair, comprehensive, and independent investigation. This report reflects my office's commitment to providing a thorough and deliberate review in each and every one of these cases, and to make sure that the full results of our investigation are provided to the public. Finally, I hope that state and local officials will act on the reforms we have proposed without delay."

The Attorney General's report proposes several reforms to the processing, supervision, and arraignment of arrestees. The proposed reforms include: (1) Expanding the availability of video conference arraignments, to ensure that arrestees are arraigned promptly, regardless of when an arrestee is taken into custody; (2) Increasing the number of personnel authorized to fingerprint arrestees to speed the processing of arrestees; (3) Updating Mount Vernon policies to require inperson cell checks of arrestees, and; (4) Re-evaluating New York State minimum standards for arrestees who may require medical attention.

In December 2014, AG Schneiderman and New York leaders called on New York State to appoint the Attorney General as a special prosecutor in all cases where an unarmed civilian dies during a police encounter. On July 8th, 2015, Governor Cuomo issued Executive Order No. 147, appointing A.G. Schneiderman as the special prosecutor in such cases. On August 3, 2015, Governor Cuomo issued Executive Order No. 147.1, which expressly conferred jurisdiction upon the Attorney General to investigate any potential unlawful acts or omissions relating to Ms. Turner's death. Executive Orders No. 147 and 147.1 also provide that the Attorney General may offer "any recommendations for systemic reform arising from the investigation."

The investigation was conducted by Special Investigations and Prosecutions Unit Deputy Chief Wanda Perez-Maldanado, Deputy Chief Jennifer Sommers, Counsel Gail Heatherly, Assistant Attorney General Matthew Ross, Senior Advisor and Special Counsel Nicholas Suplina, Chief Investigator Dominick Zarella, and Supervising Investigator John Sullivan. Analyst Muhammad Zagar assisted in the investigation. The Investigations Bureau is led by Chief Investigator Dominick Zarella. The Special Investigations and Prosecutions Unit is led by Executive Deputy Attorney General Alvin Bragg.

Senator Bonacic Acts to Protect Correctional Officers: Assembly Must Act!

Senator John J. Bonacic (R/C/I-Mt. Hope) issued the following statement on the passage of his legislation - S.1900, which would protect correctional employees by enhancing penalties when inmates intentionally expectorate on Correction Officers. S1900 would provide that such behavior would be classified as aggravated harassment of an employee, a Class E Felony. A previous version of this legislation passed the Senate in 2014 and 2015

"I am proud to sponsor this bill, which would provide some additional protections to employees of correctional facilities," said Bonacic. "Working in corrections is a dangerous job, and this legislation goes a long way to safeguard the brave men and women who serve in these facilities. By prohibiting the tossing, throwing, expelling and expectorating of any bodily fluid, the men and women serving in our corrections facilities will know that the inmates will face further criminal prosecution if they decide to act in this way, and not risk the spread of infectious disease caused by these things. The Assembly must pass this bill now."

The bill will now go to the Assembly for a vote.

Governor Cuomo Announces Narcan Now Available at Independent Pharmacies

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo today announced independent pharmacies across the state will now be able to provide naloxone to their customers without a prescription. Naloxone - also known as Narcan® -- is a medication that reverses opioid overdose. Improved accessibility to the medication is one of the priorities at the center of the Governor's fight to end opioid abuse in New York State.

"Heroin addiction has taken the lives of far too many New Yorkers, but today we are taking an important step forward in battling this epidemic," Governor Cuomo said. "By making this lifesaving medication available in drugstores without a prescription, we are continuing to prevent needless tragedies from occurring and ensuring that all New Yorkers have access to this critical medication."

The Department of Health provides funding to The Harm Reduction Coalition, the Department's Center for Excellence in serving the needs of substance users. The Harm Reduction Coalition will issue standing medical orders to the more than 750 independent pharmacies outside the five boroughs of New York City, as well as chain pharmacies without a designated prescriber, allowing their pharmacists to dispense naloxone without a prescription. As a DOH-registered overdose prevention program, the HRC is able to issue these standing orders. Many smaller counties in the state have no chain pharmacies and rely exclusively on independent pharmacies.

This initiative builds on the Governor's other opioid overdose prevention efforts. In January 2016, the Health Department approved more than 480 CVS pharmacies throughout the State as registered opioid overdose programs, enabling their pharmacists to dispense naloxone without a prescription. Earlier this month, the Department took a similar action for Walgreens for more than 460 Walgreens and Duane Read pharmacies statewide.

"Making naloxone available in both chain and independent pharmacies ensures that this life-saving medication is widely accessible throughout New York's communities," said State Health Commissioner, Dr. Howard Zucker. "Naloxone works by countering the opioid's depressive effects on respiration, so an overdose victim can breathe normally."

"I applaud this latest expansion of access to naloxone, and encourage all New Yorkers to take the opportunity to learn how to administer this life-saving medication," said NYS OASAS Commissioner Arlene González-Sánchez. "You never know when you may have the opportunity to save a life and give those suffering from addiction the opportunity to be connected to treatment so that they can begin a path towards recovery."

Sharon Stancliff, MD, HRC's Medical Director and the physician issuing the new standing orders said, "Pharmacists are very much aware of the need for naloxone in their communities and have shown enthusiasm about being involved. The role of pharmacies in promoting public health is vital. The HRC is enthusiastic about our role in facilitating their participation."

When administered either through injection or by nasal spray, naloxone temporarily blocks the effects of opioids allowing a stricken individual to regain consciousness. The potentially life-threatening opioids include medicines prescribed to address pain as well as illicit drugs such as heroin.

Naloxone poses no danger to individuals who come into contact with it, and has no potential for being abused. It works only if a person has opioids in his or her system; the medication has no effect if opioids are absent.

Governor Cuomo signed legislation last year to combat opioid abuse. One element of that legislation was strengthening the State's opioid overdose initiative. Through that initiative, which started in 2006, more than 100,000 community members and public safety personnel have been trained to recognize opioid overdoses, and to respond by administering naloxone and calling 911. More than 55,000 of the responders were trained in the last twelve months. Through their efforts, more than 3,000 lives have been saved since the inception of the program in 2006, with over 1,500 in 2015 alone.

In addition, in 2014, Governor Cuomo launched the Combat Heroin & Prescription Drug Abuse Campaign to educate New Yorkers about the risks of heroin and prescription opioid use and provide them with resources. At the Combat Heroin and Prescription Drug Abuse website, New Yorkers can find information about preventing substance abuse; recognizing the signs of heroin and opioid use and misuse; accessing drug treatment and harm reduction services; and making one's home and community safer.

Although traditionally administered by emergency medical services or hospital personnel, naloxone can be administered by laypeople with minimal training.

Pharmacists are now able to provide this training in addition to dispensing the naloxone to their customers. All individuals who are given naloxone must still go to the hospital with EMS personnel. Naloxone is effective in blocking the effects of an opioid for 30 to 90 minutes. When the naloxone wears off, someone may slip back into a life-threatening overdose.

New Yorkers struggling with an addiction, or whose loved ones are struggling, can find help and hope by calling the State's toll-free, 24-hour, 7-day-a-week HOPEline at 1-877-8-HOPENY (1-877-846-7369) or by texting HOPENY (Short Code 467369). Treatment providers can also be located by using the NYS OASAS Bed Availability Dashboard or by visiting the NYS OASAS Find Help page. Visit www.combatheroin.ny.gov for more information on addressing heroin and prescription opioid abuse, including a Kitchen Table Tool Kit to help start the conversation about the warning signs of addiction and where to get help.

Independent pharmacies wanting to dispense naloxone under HRC's standing order should send an email to naloxone@harmreduction.org.

Free Monthly Support Groups for Caregivers Conveniently Located

Monthly family caregiver support groups are offered throughout Sullivan County, hosted by Cornell Cooperative Extension Sullivan County (CCESC)'s Caregiver Resource Center (CRC). These groups are intended to provide both support and new resources to the informal family caregiver who assists an aging, ill, or disabled adult relative or friend. Bonnie Lewis, RN, CCESC dependent care educator, uses the AARP curriculum "Caring for Those You Care About" to facilitate meetings, along with various other educational resources.

There are four CRC support groups open to the public: "Share the Care" group meets at 10:00 am on the first Wednesday of each month at Lander's River Café in Callicoon, NY, "Caring for the Caregiver" group meets at 10:00 am on the second Tuesday of each month at Eureka Café in Grahamsville, NY; "Caregiver Conversations" group meets at 6:00 pm on the last Wednesday of each month at CCESC's Gerald J. Skoda Extension Education Center in Liberty, NY; and "Alzheimer's Support" group meets at 10:00 am on the third Thursday of each month at Action Toward Independence in Monticello, NY. This group is intended for caregivers of individuals with Alzheimer's disease or dementia.

These meetings provide an opportunity to listen, learn, and share in a comfortable space while finding assistance with caregiving concerns. The support groups offer a safe place for:

 Sharing feelings, frustrations, and practical ways of coping; Meeting other caregivers who are in similar situations and can offer practical advice; and Discovering new information and resources

Registration for these meetings is not required in advance but is encouraged in case of a schedule change. More information can be obtained by calling CCESC at 845-292-6180, emailing sullivan@cornell.edu, or visiting www.sullivancce.org. In the event of special needs, please contact the office.

The Caregiver Resource Center is a co-partnered pro-gram between Cornell Cooperative Extension and Office for the Aging of Sullivan County and is supported by a grant from the NYS Office for the Aging's Caregiver Program.

From the Borscht Belt to the Airbnb Boom''- A Bed Tax for Ulster in the 21st Century

Ulster County Comptroller Elliott Auerbach has offered a proposal to the Ulster County Legislature that would modernize the way hotel and motel room occupancy taxes are applied, collected, distributed, and determined. The 21st Century Bed Tax, as it's called, was borne out of the blossoming phenomenon of the "sharing economy," as well as the critical needs to simplify part of the County's tax code and provide some fiscal relief to our municipalities.

"Ongoing discussions with local renters and hosts, pub-lic officials, and Airbnb have led us to develop legislation that would significantly update the County's hotel and motel room occupancy tax to address the way people are doing business here in Ulster in 2016," said Auerbach. "We've crafted a local law that I believe would streamline the way major and minor players in the lodging industry pay the taxes required of them, while generating new revenue and assisting our localities with the tools they need to adequately monitor properties used for transient occupancy."

The primary focus of the legislation is to clarify the extension of the current 2% tax to capture every short-term and vacation rental. Individual operators would be required to register with the County for tax purposes - as do traditional hotels and motels; however, an operator would have the ability to designate hosting platforms, such as Airbnb, to collect and pay the tax on the operator's behalf when the corporation has an agreement to that effect in place with the

Additionally, the local law would greatly clean up the methodology used by operators to determine their taxable rent. Past investigation by the Comptroller's Office revealed that many operators miscalculated their fiscal responsibilities to the County due to an archaic and almost indecipherable tax structure primarily based on meal offer-ings typically associated with old-time Catskill resorts. Lastly, a portion of the revenues would be returned to the 'Today's decision is a clear victory in our effort to Towns and City of Kingston for purposes related to code
